DRAMA INTEGRATION WORKSHOPS

BRINGING BOOKS TO LIFE: FIVE SESSIONS

Through a fun-filled, immersive five-session workshop, engage your students in the power of collaborative and visual storytelling that will deepen their reading comprehension and critical analysis skills. Your students will retell their favorite books by creating and bringing to life the setting, characters and events. Choose your favorite book to explore! Below are our current Bringing Books to Life offerings for grades K-2.

These workshops meet CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.RL/RI reading literature and informational texts standards for grades K-2. Not studying these books? We can adapt our current offerings to any book or social studies topic.

Where the Wild Things Are

In this five-session workshop, students will work as an ensemble to dissect the story, become their own wild thing and recreate memorable events from the book, culminating in a retelling of the story.

The Snowy Day

Students spend five sessions creating their own snowy world that's full of imagination. They work to reenact their favorite scenes, and use their bodies, voices and imagination to create their snowy day experiences.

Go, Dog. Go!

Big dogs, little dogs, dogs at work and dogs at play! Students will create their favorite dog character, learn how to transform their movements to mirror the animal and work as a class to create their own interpretation of this classic story.

Green Eggs and Ham

Celebrate this timeless classic with a five-session workshop that allows students to outline the events in the book, create physical pictures and work as an ensemble to bring the silly story to life.

Gilberto and the Wind

In this imagination and character-driven workshop, students will join Gilberto and his adventures with the wind! By creating their own wind characters, students will bring a story to life in their own way. Students will share their characters on the last day of the workshop.

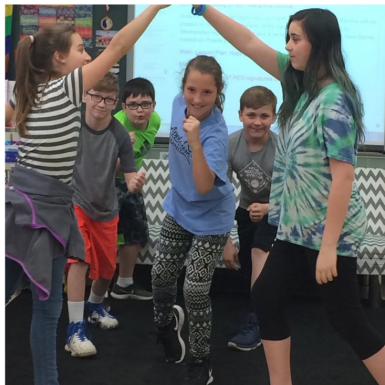

Dragons Love Tacos

Students will step into their own dragon character. They will focus on movements, objectives and moments from the story to generate their own version of this funny tale.

Lilly's Purple Plastic Purse

Students will outline the story, tell it through their bodies, make a personal connection to the text and work as an ensemble to recreate moments from this book about a mouse who learns the importance of sharing time.

Junie B. Jones Is (almost) a Flower Girl

Follow the tales of June B. Jones during this workshop about story comprehension. Students will work with text from the books, step inside the physicality of the characters and present their own retelling.

The Wind in the Willows

Engage your students in a five-session workshop with a story of Toad and his love of motorcars. Students will transform their bodies and voices into the animals, and they will build their own theatre piece based on the beloved characters' relationships and adventures.

The Poetry of Shel Silverstein: "What If..."

Take a journey with one of the world's most beloved writers, Shel Silverstein. Students will work as an ensemble to physically portray their own "what ifs", inspired by Silverstein's poetry. They will interpret the text, create moving pictures, connect emotionally to the words, and share their own retelling of the poem.

Fables and Folktales

Bring to life the stories that have been passed through generations. Through this interactive process, students will create physical representations from the descriptions in the folktale. The workshop will end in a presentation that brings together the most important aspects of theatre.

Nursery Rhymes

Hey Diddle Diddle! Join the Cat, the Fiddle, and many more cherished nursery rhymes characters in this story-based workshop! Students will embody and explore the fantastical world of Mother Goose, while focusing on using and stretching their bodies, voices, and imaginations!

Anansi and the Moss-Covered Rock

Students will create their own version of this famous folktale by embodying the animals, picking their environment and using their imaginations to create objects within their made-up world. This workshop culminates with the students performing their own retelling of this story about a sneaky spider.

The Tortoise & the Hare

Aesop's beloved fable tells the sweet story of opposites and friendship. Students will explore this fable's world — from sun-shining spring to snow-falling winter in this workshop based on imagination, characters and physicality.

Cinderella

Students will journey into the world of “Once Upon a Time” in this workshop based on the beloved fairy tale,. Students will create and embody characters inspired by the story. By the end of the week, they will share their own interpretation of the story.

The Little Mermaid

Journey far below the crashing waves of the ocean to the world of The Little Mermaid. Students transform their bodies and voices into sea creatures as they explore this magical mermaid “tail”.

Snow White

Travel with your students to the enchanted forest in this workshop based on the fairy tale of Snow White. Students transform their bodies and voices into characters from this beloved story, and build their own theatre piece based on the characters' relationships and magical journeys.

The BFG

Engage your students in the power of literary interpretation through collaborative storytelling. Through writing and performance, your students will interpret Dahl's structure as they stage scenes from the novel, write monologues as the characters, and retell of Sophie's magical adventure.

Because of Winn-Dixie

Through this immersive five-day workshop, students will dive into the story of Opal and her sweet, scruffy dog, Winn-Dixie. Using dramatic and visual storytelling skills, students will deepen their connection to the story and its themes of friendship, loss and love.

Books Connected to the 2022-23 Outreach Touring Play Season

The Little Prince

Engage your students with the magical and star-filled world of the Little Prince. Students will explore themes such as friendship, love and loss, using their bodies, voices and imaginations. Students will create their own theatre piece based on the Little Prince's journey.

Stellaluna

Engage your students with this delightful story of friendship, self-expression, and found family. Students will create their own fruit bat characters, using their bodies and voices to explore being a bat in a bird's world. This workshop will culminate in a retelling of the book.

Nate the Great

Students will become adventuring sleuths in this workshop inspired by boy detective Nate the Great! Creating their own detective characters, students will explore using all their senses to bring a mystery to life. By the end of the week, students will present their own retelling of Nate the Great's capers!

BRING THEATRE TO YOUR SCHOOL

Book the 2022-23 Outreach Touring Plays

Our Touring Company delivers professional theatre right to your school! We are happy to discuss with you which play is best suited for your students.

We provide a range of resources to help prepare your students for the show and to connect the experience to your curriculum.

All Playhouse touring plays address grade-level appropriate, state academic standards in English, language arts, fine arts, health and wellness, and arts and humanities. They are performed by members of the Playhouse's Bruce E. Coyle Intern Company.

PUBLIC SPEAKING: FIVE SESSIONS

Empower students to create effective conversations. Students will learn to identify key details of a story/text and develop vocal techniques for oral presentations. They will also learn to identify real-life connections between the words of the text and their use in performance, as well as everyday life. Below are our current Public Speaking offerings for grades K-2.

These workshops meet CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.SL speaking and listening standards for grades K-2. and can be adapted to any book or social studies topic being studied.

Nursery Rhymes

Students will take texts from favorite nursery rhymes and learn the tools needed for public speaking inside and outside of the classroom. They will have the opportunity to retell their favorite poems while practicing the do's and don'ts of speaking in front of an audience. At the end the week, students will share the nursery rhymes they have been practicing with each other.

Fables and Folktales

This workshop takes texts from your favorite fable or folktales and introduces the tools needed for public speaking inside and outside the classroom. Students will focus on building confidence and connecting emotion to text and end the week with a presentation of the text.

The Poetry of Shel Silverstein: “Put Something In”

Engage your students with the magical words of Shel Silverstein. Students will learn to read with expression, use sound and movement to retell the poem “Put Something In” and gain an understanding of how to convey the author’s intent. The workshop will culminate in a memorized sharing of the selected poem using applied drama techniques.

Anansi and the Moss Covered Rock

Using the West African folktale, students will learn techniques for positive public speaking! These tools will help students grow in their confidence, communication, and stage presence. The workshop will culminate in the student’s own re-telling of the story.
